France, Communists Sign Viet Nam Cease-Fire

U. S. Refuses To Sign Pact By Nine Nations

No 'Hot' War For First Time In Twenty Years

GENEVA (U.P.) — France and the Communists signed a cease-fire for Indochina today, with the United States standing coldly aloof on the sidelines.

U. S. Undersecretary of State Walter Bedell Smith refused to sign a nine-nation declaration setting forth terms of the agreement designed to end the eight-year war in Indochina as quickly as the Reds can notify all their scattered units — expected in 10 days.

The U. S. undersecretary reiterated the U. S. pledge that it will "refrain from the threat or use of force to disturb" the agreement, but making clear U. S. dissatisfaction.

He said: "The United States reiterates its traditional position that people are entitled to determine their own future and that it will not join in an arrangement which would hinder this."

The cease-fire will leave the world without a "hot" war for the first time in 20 years.

The Communists were openly jubilant over an unquestioned Red victory, and Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill cabled his congratulations to Britain's Anthony Eden for his mediation efforts. The British believed the terms were the best obtainable.

The conference was officially ended with a brief plenary session — the 30th since it convened — at which the final declaration was issued.

Representatives of both sides in the nearly 8-year-old war officially ended the hostilities in two separate ceremonies, both delayed by red tape.

Ceremonies leading to the signing of the cease fire for Viet Nam, Indochina's largest state and scene of the major fighting, and the lesser state of Laos were concluded at 3:50 a. m. (8:50 p. m. Tuesday CST).

Last-minute objections to the continued presence of Red guerrillas in Cambodia, the third Indochinese state, plus the loss of an official seal delayed completion of the overall cease fire agreement until 12:38 p. m. (5:38 a. m. CST).

The cease-fire became effective at the moment the documents were signed, but sporadic shooting may continue throughout Indochina for two more weeks because it may take that long to relay the order to isolated units.

Mendes-France Attains Goal In achieving the cease-fire, French Premier Pierre Mendes-France attained his goal of winning peace in Indochina within 30

Ridgway, Omaha, New Haven to Vote On Unit District

Citizens of Ridgway, Omaha, New Haven and surrounding areas of Gallatin county will vote Monday on the issue of establishing a unit school district, replacing the present setup.

Passage of the issue would result in a reorganization of various school districts into one unit under one school board. One advantage of the unit district for the community would be in increasing its potential tax moneys from the state by some $20,000.

Schools in the area which would be affected by the change include Ridgway grade and high school, New Haven grade school, Lynch and Asbury.

The polls will open at 12 o'clock noon and close at 7 p. m.

Seeks Damages From Brookport Tavern Owners

Helen Hinkle of Saline county is suing Brookport tavern operators and tavern building owners for $1,000 damages to her automobile.

In a complaint filed in circuit court here under the Illinois dram shop act provisions, she asks the sum from Virginia Anderson, tavern operator, Virginia and William Anderson, owners of the building, and H. H. Reynolds, tavern operator and building owner.

The complaint says her husband, Byford Hinkle, on June 19, 1953, became intoxicated or partly intoxicated on liquor secured at the Brookport taverns and as a result had a collision with an auto operated by Ronald George Bradley one-half mile south of Raleigh.

Bruce Burnett is Elected Chairman Of Saline County Chapter Red Cross

Bruce Burnett of Eldorado was elected chairman of the Saline County Chapter of the American Red Cross at the annual meeting held at the Junior high school in Harrisburg Monday night.

Herman Lambert of Harrisburg was elected treasurer and Mrs. Kenneth Capel of Harrisburg was elected secretary.

The minutes of the last annual meeting held July, 1953, were read and the following reports given:

In Home Service 307 servicemen and veterans had been given service and in addition to these services approximately 1500 people had been given information only in the Red Cross office. These services include verification of need of emergency leaves, emergency communications, reports for Military, Veterans Administration, servicemen, veterans or their families and financial assistance in cases of emergency needs of servicemen's families.

During the past year Mrs. Ray Altire has taught first aid to the scouts of Harrisburg and Dr. Harold Brown has taught first aid to the scouts in Carrier Mills. Louie Beltz, First Aid chairman, announced that a First Aid class would be taught during the month of August for the bus drivers and anyone interested in the course could enroll.

Guy Hunter of Carrier Mills, Junior Red Cross chairman, reported 28 elementary schools and three high schools in the county had enrolled. A total of $198.85 was contributed to Junior Red Cross by the school children in Saline county during the enrollment. Theta Rho members, an organization of the Rebekah lodge, who are also Junior Red Cross members, helped in the Fund Drive Clean-up campaign and also in the recruitment of blood donors during the past year.

The Junior high school Junior Red Cross sent scrap books to the Veterans hospital in Marion. Twenty-eight gift boxes were donated by the children of the Saline county schools. These boxes are sent to needy children all over the world.

Russell Malan, Audra Stone and Loren Dallas, Blood Program chairmen in Saline county submitted the following report:

During the past 12 months 971 pints of blood were collected in this county. The quota for the year was 1,750 pints.

Hospitals in Saline county used 898 pints of blood which was secured from the St. Louis Regional Blood Center at no cost to the patients for the blood. Thirty-one patients from Saline county received their total blood needs through this program in out-of-county hospitals.

A total of 1,975 hours of volunteer work was given by the people of this county in the Blood Program. Appreciation for this work and for the hours donated by the doctors and the registered nurses in this county, was expressed by the chairman. Appreciation was also expressed to the Pankey bakery, Harrisburg Ice company, Coca-Cola Bottling company, Continental Coffee company, Schriener's cafe, Harrisburg Dairy, Eldorado Steam bakery, Nu-Way's store, Dr. Pepper Bottling company and Federal Wholesale company, for the contributions they have made each day the bloodmobile was in the county in providing food, drinks and ice to our canteen without charge.

The Fund Drive report was given by the chapter treasurer, Bruce Polk. The total for the county was $5,296.10. Of this amount $2,817.25 is retained by the chapter and the balance sent to National. This is the amount the chapter must operate on from July 1, 1954, thru June 30, 1955.

The balance in the chapter fund on June 31, 1954 was $115.37 and the chapter has outstanding bills of $461.64, making a deficit of $346.27 which will have to be paid from the funds for the next fiscal year.

Value of Church Discussed by Rev. Joe Morman

What is the value of your church? was a question asked by the Rev. Joe Morman, pastor of the First Baptist church, in an address last night before members of the Kiwanis club at the Masonic temple.

"The church is lasting and will be here when you are gone," Rev. Morman stated. "God intended for us to put a high value on His church," he added.

To some people, Rev. Morman stated, church is only something which interferes with their Sunday morning's sleep. To some it is only something for the children and women, but not for the men.

"There is a commercial value to the church," Rev. Morman pointed out.

The churches of Harrisburg are among its finer points, he said. To the tough men of industry churches mean something because they know the value they have to their workers.

"Your church is a place to be at peace with God and at rest with your own soul," Rev. Morman stated.

Your church is depending on you. It does its job, but must depend on you to do yours, he said.

Nations are trying to find peace, but in the final outcome peace will come through the churches and not through governments, Rev. Morman pointed out.

We would put a different value on the church if our freedom of worship was taken from us, Rev. Morman said. We have that freedom, he said, but not all people have that privilege.

"Men in this nation are starving the churches in their work by leaving them alone, by not attending services. A church dies if there are no men to worship in them," he said.

Rev. Morman was introduced by Vernard Clayton, program chairman for the meeting.

Jerry Johnson was a guest of his father, Dr. G. R. Johnson.

Autos Sideswipe, Bob Foster and LeRoy Cox Hurt

Both Young Men Severely Injured In Their Left Arms

Two young men were in the Lightner hospital this morning suffering severe injuries to their left arms as a result of a sideswiping of their cars last night on Route 45 northeast of Harrisburg.

They are Bob Foster of Muddy, an announcer at Station WEBQ, and LeRoy Cox, formerly of Muddy who lives here.

Reports were that Foster was traveling toward Muddy and Cox toward Harrisburg, both driving alone, when the collision occurred shortly before midnight. The two cars sideswiped on the curve that goes into the Middle Fork bridge, and apparently the left elbows of the two were sticking out over the doors when the crash occurred.

The Foster automobile went down an embankment but did not turn over. The Cox car stayed on the road.

Rushed to Lightner hospital, it was seen that both men had sustained serious injuries to their left arms. Cox suffered injuries to his elbow joint with three or four bone fragments in the area. Young Foster suffered severe lacerations to his arm, both bones of his forearm were broken and there were bone fragments in his arm.

Later today it was arranged to take Cox to the Veterans hospital at Marion and Foster to St. Mary's hospital in East St. Louis for mechanical work on their arms.

Seek Return of Herrin Youth From New Orleans

MARION, Ill. (U.P.) — Williamson County authorities today sought the return of James R. Baggett, 17, of Herrin, from New Orleans on a charge of attempted robbery in connection with the beating of a Herrin housewife one week ago.

Baggett was arrested Tuesday in New Orleans and charged with violation of the Dyer Act by interstate transportation of a stolen automobile.

Baggett entered the home of Mrs. Hildegard Wagner, 31, at 2 a. m. July 14 and beat her on the head with a wrench and demanded money. The Wagner home is next to Baggett's home and his stepfather and mother heard Mrs. Wagner's screams and went to the house and pulled the youth away from the attack.

Baggett stole a car belonging to a Herrin man and was driving it when picked up in New Orleans, Williamson County State's Atty. Carl Sneed said today the youth would be taken before a grand jury for more serious charges if he is returned here.

Long Siege of Hot Weather Brings More Appeals from States for Federal Aid

By United Press

A heat wave was routed today in the North, but it refused to leave the South and Southwest.

President Eisenhower made drought-stricken areas of Texas and Wyoming eligible for federal aid by declaring them disaster emergency areas.

The long siege of hot weather brought appeals for federal drought aid from four new states — Alabama, Georgia, Missouri and Illinois.

Storms which brought cool air to the North-central States added three deaths to the toll taken by heat and violent weather in the past two weeks, bringing the total to at least 357.

The showers that fell from eastern Iowa to eastern Virginia relieved many parched crops, but in many localities, the rains were too late.

Says Will View Aggression with Grave Concern

President Says U. S. Will Not Join In Geneva Declaration

WASHINGTON (U.P.) — President Eisenhower said today that the United States "will not use force" to upset the Indochina cease-fire agreement even though it contains "features which we do not like."

The President also said the United States would view any renewal of Communist aggression "as a matter of grave concern."

The President said in a formal statement that he hoped the settlement would lead to establishment of peace and that the rights and needs of France and the three associated states of Indochina.

But he said an American statement being issued at Geneva would state the United States' decision that it was not prepared to join in the main conference declaration.

Reads Statement on Agreement

With obvious misgivings over the Indochina settlement, the President said in his prepared statement:

"The United States is actively pursuing discussions with other free nations with a view to the rapid organization of a collective defense in Southeast Asia in order to prevent further direct or indirect Communist aggression in that general area."

The President did not spell out objectionable features of the Indochina cease-fire in his prepared statement. During the question and answer period at his news conference, he referred to the partition of Viet Nam as a very unsatisfactory situation parallel to that previously existing in Korea and Germany.

The President also told his news conference he does not believe that the Communist world wants war at this time.

He said he does not believe that the Reds want to challenge the free world. But he expressed concern over what he referred to as the Communist conspiracy to overthrow free countries by deceit, subversion, and coup d'etats.

Notes "One Good Thing"

The President said that if one good thing came out of the Southeast Asian experience, it was for the free world to look the facts in the face and decide what it was willing to do to halt communism. He said when the freedom of a man in Viet Nam is taken away we all lose a little.

The President, in response to a question, refused to label the Indochina cease-fire agreement as appeasement.

He said he hesitated to use such words because they have so many different meanings. He said the agreement was not a satisfactory one that the United States liked, but he did not know of any acceptable alternative he could offer.

Since he had no alternative, he said he was not going to criticize. In his prepared statement the President said he was "glad that agreement has been reached at Geneva to stop the bloodshed in Indochina, in which thousands of brave men, while defending freedom, have died during the last seven years."

Noting that the United States had not been a belligerent in the war, the President said the primary responsibility for the Indochina settlement rested with those nations which fought there. The American role at Geneva, he said, had been to try to be helpful to obtain "a just and honorable settlement which will take into account the needs of the interested people."

U. S. Not Bound by Decision

Because of these factors, he said the United States had not been a party to the cease-fire decision at Geneva and would not be bound by it. He expressed the hope that the cease-fire would lead to peace even though it "contains features which we do not like."

But he said a great deal depends on how these features work in practice.

"The United States is issuing at Geneva a statement to the effect that it is not prepared to join in the conference declaration, but as loyal members of the United Nations, we also say that in compliance with the obligations and principles contained in Article 2 of the United Nations charter, the United States will not use force to disturb the settlement," the President said.

Bad News Underlies Result
Of British-U. S. Conference

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—NEA—What came out of the Eisenhower-Churchill Dulles-Eden conference in Washington was not as optimistic as it may have appeared on the surface of the fine-sounding communications.

Not mentioned in either statement was the firm British opinion that no British soldier would be allowed to go to Indo-China to fight.

That dashes completely any hopes for a united action program to save Southeast Asia from communist aggression, in spite of the pious declaration in the commu-cations that "we will press forward with plans for collective security."

From this it would appear that if,
or when, the Communists get down to the borders of Malaya, the British might be willing to make another of their historic last stands.
They would then want plenty of help. In the meantime, any fighting to save Indo-China will have to be done by others.

There is a certain amount of buck-passing now going on between Washington and Paris over who takes responsibility for what happens next.

THE FRENCH SAY they won't decide on what part of Indo-China they will give up to the Communists until they know what the United States will do.

The U. S. government for its part is waiting to see what deal Premier Mendes-France makes with the Communists, as it's up to him to draw the cease-fire line.

The U. S. House of Representatives has just approved another $800 million of aid for carrying on the Indo-China war next year. But for all practical purposes, Washington seems to have written off any possibility for a victory over the Communists in this area.

A miracle might somehow save the situation. But the French are surrendering the rich rice bowl in the Tonkin delta around Hanoi.
They may try to save the Mekong delta south of Saigon.

Whether the actual dividing line is made at the 16th or the 20th parallel, or anywhere in-between, may not be important. The principle of the thing is that the French are reconciled to surrendering a part of their territory to the Communists to obtain a cease-fire. The sad fact is that whatever is given up in the armistice is gone for good.

The French may try to hang onto a beachhead around Haiphong to make an orderly evacuation of their forces from Hanoi and in the north. How many Viet Namese forces may be evacuated, or how many may choose to move south with the French is, of course, unknown. Some of them may choose to stay north and desert to the Viet Minh Communists in order to be with the winners.

A CHAMPION RIDDLE is how much of the more than a billion dollars' worth of U. S. military aid and equipment furnished to the French in Indo-China can be salvaged in the northern withdrawal.
The prospect is that a lot of this material will be lost.

Perhaps the most that can be salvaged out of the Indo-China war is the retention of southern Viet Nam and the demilitarizing or neutralizing of Laos and Cambodia so that they will not fall into Communist hands immediately.

Out of this might come, if the French agree to it, a new line on which the anti-Communist forces might stand. There might be an agreement that if the Communists crossed this new line, it would be considered an act of aggression that would call for retaliation.

THE BRITISH HAVE AN IDEA that they might superimpose on this new type of Southeast Asia defense pact an agreement to bring the so-called Colombo powers into
it. This would include India, Burma and Pakistan.

But there is no assurance that they would join in any guarantees for the defense of this area. India, in particular, is in doubt, in view of the Nehru-Chou En-lai agreement to support "unified and independent" states in Indo-China.

Chinese Communist and Viet Minh forces, of course, want all of Viet Nam and all of Laos and Cambodia, for that matter. In the absence of any Southeast Asia pact, it is recognized that at the present time these Communist forces have power to take what they want.

But if the Communists did take all of Indo-China, it is possible that the reaction in the United States would take the world close to a general war. That is the un-publicized but truthfully bad news that comes out of the British-American conference.

Korean Student
Goes for Ice Cream

BELOIT, Wis., (AP)—It's ice cream
"all year round" for a young Korean wartime interpreter who is studying at Beloit College for a career in international law.

Whal Min Kim, 22, lived under both the Japanese and Communist domination of North Korea, his home. He witnessed refugees fleeing, "brainwashings and liberations" by the Japanese, Russians and Red Chinese. He and his family fled from Pyongyang to South Korea before the fighting began, and later he became a field interpreter for UN forces.

With the cooperation of a church group, Kim came halfway around the world to enroll at Beloit to continue his law studies.

He describes life in Beloit as "too good to be true" and says such American luxuries as eating ice cream "all year round" are delightful.

Kangaroo rats, pocket mice, prairie dogs, gazelles, and dozens of other desert animals, pass their whole lives without touching a drop of water.

Miss Ann Marie Mueller, William Robert Durham Exchange Wedding Vows

Mrs. William Robert Durham

In a lovely candlelight service on Saturday, June 26, Miss Ann Marie Mueller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Mueller, 7305 North Boyd Way, Milwaukee, Wis., and William Robert Durham, 2000 West Van Buren, Chicago, son of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Durham, 211 East Ford, Harrisburg, exchanged wedding vows before an altar decorated with greenery and candelabra.

The three o'clock double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. L. W. Mahke in the St. John's Lutheran church in Milwaukee.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a white taffeta gown designed princess style with a small scalloped open neckline sprinkled with appliques of venetian lace roses. With the dress she wore short gauntlets. Her veil of silk illusion was secured to a small bandeau. She carried a colonial bouquet of white roses and carnations.

Miss Nancy Mueller, the bride's sister, was maid of honor, wearing a ballerina length powder blue taffeta also fashioned with princess lines and a low V neckline. She wore on her head a halo of blue roses which matched her dress and short veil.

Bridesmaids were Virginia Kindel, Greendale, Wis., and Jean Schulz, Milwaukee, Wis., who wore dresses identical to the maid of honor.

Darrell Durham, brother of the bride, was best man.

The ladies of the Egyptian Golf Association met recently at the country club for the second day luncheon.

The hostess committee, composed of Mrs. Rodney Nash, Mrs. O. L. Turner Jr., Mrs. V. V. Brown, Mrs. Bob Partain, Mrs. Charles Kurto and Mrs. Jack Davenport, chairman, served a delicious lunch to around sixty members seated at tables which were covered in yellow and decorated with yellow and blue daisies.

The afternoon was spent playing bridge, gin rummy and golf. Prizes were won by Mrs. Mitchell Golish, Mrs. Arthur Franks Jr., Mrs. Bob Davenport and Mrs. Gene Kimberlin. The luncheons will be held on the second Wednesday of each month unless stated otherwise.

Mrs. Eva Dudley has returned from a two weeks' vacation in Pontiac, Mich., with her grandson, Edward Earl Shelby, and friends in Benton Harbor, Mich., returning home via Hammond, Ind. Mrs. Dudley is a cook at the Harrisburg hospital.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Johnny Williams who passed away July 21, 1952.

Little, we knew with dawn that morn

The sorrow it would bring;

The blow was hard, the shock severe,

We little thought the end was near,

If all the world were ours to give,

We would give it, yes and more,

To see your smiling face again,

Come shining through this door.

Sometimes it is hard to understand

Why some things have to be,

But in His wisdom God has planned

Beyond our power to see.

God gave us strength to bear it

And courage to meet the blow

But what it means to lose you

This world will never know.

The beautiful things you did for us

Live in our hearts each day,

And keep you near and dear to us,

Though you have passed away.

Sadly missed by his wife, Betty, children and grandchildren. *20-1

House Subcommittee Approves Bill To Outlaw the Communist Party

By United Press

A House Judiciary subcommittee today approved a measure which would outlaw the Communist Party.

The administration is opposed to the bill. Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr. has argued that it would only drive the Communist Party further underground and make it hard to keep tabs on members.

Nevertheless, the subcommittee approved the bill which would also provide for a $10,000 fine and 10-year imprisonment for anyone who remains in the Communist Party 30 days after the bill's enactment. Proof would have to be made that the member knew the party's revolutionary aims.

The bill would declare, 30 days after enactment, that the Communist Party, or any successor regardless of name, constitutes an illegal conspiracy. As such it would lose all rights, privileges and immunities enjoyed under law.

Other Congress highlights:

Guided Missiles: Senator Stuart Symington (D-Mo.), former Air secretary, told the Senate Russia seems likely to develop intercontinental guided missiles with hydrogen warheads before the United States. He said the Soviet Union has an all-out program to develop such weapons and is likely to succeed in a few years. He said the United States is appropriating less and less each year for research and development.

Radio: A House subcommittee reported the Air Force has purchased radio transmitter-receivers under a 100-million-dollar contract with Radio Corp. of America that are "so unreliable as to be of no practical use in their present state."

The Air Force has received about 700 to 800 of the 5,743 sets ordered. A Government Operations subcommittee said an estimated three million dollars will have to be spent to improve the sets.

Housing Scandals: An investigation was ordered into whether the Republican National Committee expressed interest in getting the job of Clyde L. Powell, who was fired as assistant Federal Housing Administration commissioner. Sen. Homer E. Capehart (R-Ind.) said he wanted a thorough check to determine whether the committee had

Eniwetok's Gen. Clarkson: He Calls the Shots for H-Bomb Show

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA)—When the last bit of radio-active ash has fallen from the Pacific hydrogen bomb tests, a comparatively unknown, fatherly-looking man nicknamed "Perk" will shoulder all the blame for anything that went wrong.

On the other hand "Perk" is sure to get a minimum of public acclaim for successes achieved, despite the fact that he has been in charge of a great historic mission.

"Perk" is Maj. Gen. Percy William Clarkson. As commander of Joint Task Force Seven, the organization running the tests at Eniwetok, he is the big chief of that whole nuclear pow-wow.

It's Perk who tells the scientists if they can, or cannot, push the button on the big bang. When there's a zero-hour question on the weather being good or bad, it's Perk who must make that grave decision. Even when the chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, Lewis L. Strauss, is at the test site Perk is still the big boss and Strauss merely his "guest."

Despite the tremendous responsibilities and the lack of public credit, Clarkson is philosophical about the whole thing.

He remembers his role as commander of the 33rd Infantry Division in the Pacific during World War II. One miserable, rainy day while pinned down in a foxhole near the front he took time to jot down a half-dozen bits of home-

MAJ. GEN. CLARKSON: A philosophy about success and failure.

ly philosophy. One of his notes read:

"A small success by you is lost in large successes elsewhere. A small failure by you is lost in large failures elsewhere. But a small success or failure assumes unwarranted importance higher up. Nothing else is going on."

Clarkson's rimless glasses soften his frosty, precise military appearance and demeanor. He's a big, 200-pound aggressive man with tremendous energy for his 60 years. His manner of speech is direct and forceful. It's a personal policy never to let anything he says have a doubtful meaning.

A native of San Antonio, Tex., he still carries a Texan's appetite for chili and all kinds of hot Mexican-type foods. But he believes any kind of good food is the biggest factor in troop morale.

When he commanded the 33rd, he launched a contest in the division for the best recipe for dishes made from C-rations. The entries were so outstanding the Army published the best ones in book form.

Clarkson also loves to go deep-sea fishing and is one of the nation's best skeet shooters. He's an avid reader in bed of non-fiction books dealing with government and national affairs.

One of Clarkson's special talents is smoothing out personality conflicts. On a complex project like the one at Eniwetok, with crews of brilliant and individualistic civilian scientists working closely with military brass, this ability is essential.

Many months ago when personnel for the current series of tests began assembling, he heard reports of trouble brewing between a colonel and a scientist over the storage of some instruments. He promptly called both men into his office, gave them a cup of coffee and asked each one to explain his side of the difficulty. A half-hour later the general had the trouble ironed out and the two men the best of friends.

Another qualification which has kept the general on two of these Eniwetok tests, despite an agreement to rotate the job among the services, is an excellent technical background. He has an electrical engineering degree from Texas A. & M. College and taught both chemistry and electronics at West Point for five years.

While he commanded the 33rd Division, Clarkson won praise from General MacArthur for the spirit of the outfit and its performance in combat. Military experts agree that Clarkson's development of night-fighting tactics was a major factor in the war in the Pacific.

During the first half of the Pacific fighting U. S. forces had been content to move during the day and die in the dark. The Japs took advantage and planned most of their activity for night. But after Clarkson turned their night combat technique against them, the Japs never were able to adjust to the new situation and ended up being licked at their own game.

An hour before the first big-scale night attack was attempted by the 33rd, Clarkson moved silently among the assembled units listening to what the men were saying. Just after the troops moved out, Clarkson said to an aide:

"This thing is sure to succeed because the men aren't afraid and think it's a good idea."

The general received the Distinguished Service Cross during the crucial battle for the island of Morotai. Forward units of his division had been halted in a grim fight for a vital hill. In a full day of walking over tortuous terrain and under heavy enemy fire he reached his front troops, helped the commander revise his tactics and spurred the men on personally to a great victory.

General Clarkson is married and officially retired from the Army several years ago, but is being kept on active duty for the Eniwetok assignment.

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—If you had $2,254.09 in your pocket—you and every other man, woman and child in New York state—you could pay off the state's debt to the federal government.

That is the estimate of the Citizens Public Expenditure survey, a private taxpayer's group.

The organization said the state's share of the national debt is $33,888,000 or $2,254.09 per person.

Signing of Cease-Fire Begins New Era For France; N. Africa is Next Target

PARIS (UP)—Signing of a cease-fire in Indochina started a new era today for a France which at last has found a do-something leader in Premier Pierre Mendes-France.

The agreement to end the ruinous war 8,000 miles from home was greeted with almost universal satisfaction. The French felt it was done without losing honor or cutting the bonds of friendship with the United States.

Mendes-France, a man without a political machine and virtually unknown outside France as recently as a year ago, accomplished in 30 days what 19 previous postwar premiers had failed to do.

The grumblings that could be heard came from supporters of the last government, headed by former premier Joseph Laniel.

They complained that Mendes-France only concluded a settlement for which they already had traced the outlines and that in doing so he had "gone too far."

Foes' Comments Discounted

Little stock was placed in the utterances of the dissidents, especially in view of Washington's decision to ride along with Mendes-France.

But the grumblings indicated Mendes-France would have to overcome dangerous opposition in the National Assembly next month when he hopes to win adoption of his North African, economic and European armistice policies, in that order, by the deputies.

Mendes-France made North Africa his next target because, with the Indochina war over, terrorism in Tunisia and Morocco will possibly become the world's new No. 1 trouble spot.

North Africa always has been Mendes-France's private preoccupation, however, and sources close to his office said he would spell out his program on the French protectorates there within 48 hours after returning from Geneva.

Fears Arab Revolt

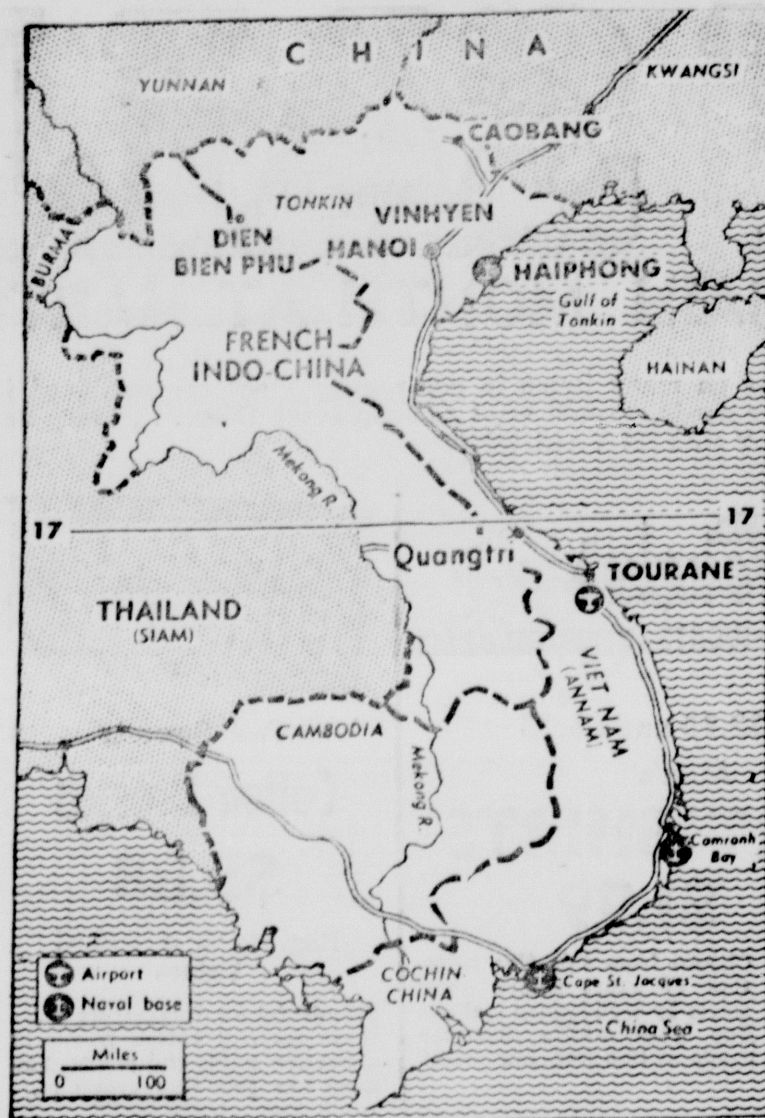

Mendes-France was known to feel strongly that France again will face revolt unless it forms a new partnership quickly with the Arab majorities in Tunisia and Morocco.

The last hurdle which Mendes-France must surmount, his last before the scheduled Assembly vacation begins in late August, is the European army plan which France has been stalling.

Mendes-France still has given no clue as to whether he will choose to support the army treaty with only slight modification or whether he will risk a break with his allies by demanding a completely different substitute.

He will meet with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer within the next two weeks before forcing the deputies finally to stand up and be counted on the crucial question of putting 500,000 Germans in a common Western army.

The Daily Register 25c a week by carrier boy.

MAP SPOTS TRUCE TERMS—The French government has agreed to surrender to the Reds all of northern Viet Nam above the 17th parallel, including the cities of Hanoi and Haiphong. The truce line would cut Viet Nam in half, 25 miles north of the railcenter of Quangtri, but leave the big air base at Tourane, only one in southeast Asia capable of carrying atomic bombers, still in French hands. (NEA Telephoto)

France, Communists Sign Cease-Fire

Days after taking office.

Even though the first documents were signed almost four hours after his midnight deadline, the delay was a technicality and all documents were dated July 20.

"Agreement was reached before midnight as the premier promised," a conference spokesman said. "The technical details of the signing were held up because a number of pages had to be re-typed. The premier does not intend to resign because of a simple delay in typewriting."

Mendes-France's "peace with honor" sliced Viet Nam across her narrow waist near the 17th parallel, along a line running along a lazy little stream, the Ben Ha River, which is not on most maps of Indochina.

It gave Communist Rebel Leader Ho Chi Minh the city of Hanoi, all of the rich Red River delta, and all of northern Viet Nam.

The agreement also prevents the establishment of new Communist or French military bases in Viet Nam.

On the other side of the balance sheet, the Communists gave up their demands for the ancient Annamese capital of Hue and the great atom-bomber and naval base of Tourane. They agreed to wait two years before holding elections instead of immediately as originally demanded.

Halts Arms Shipments

After all units in the field receive word of the cease-fire, both sides will begin regrouping on designated sides of the parallel.

Henceforth, according to the agreement, the movement of arms and ammunition to either side cease. This means that the French no longer can receive American guns and the Communists must not accept munitions from Red China.

All war prisoners are to be repatriated within 30 days after the cease-fire.

Shortly after the agreement was signed, the news of peace was flashed to the French and Communist high commands in Indochina. The high commands, in turn, immediately began relaying the word to units in the field.

Poor communications made it impossible for the Communists to reach all of their troops in the abandoned southern Red River delta and it was believed that it will take three days to inform all of the units and two weeks to get the news to irregulars and guerrillas in northern Indochina.

A spokesman for the French high command in Indochina said there were no reports of fighting. Thus the guns of war were silent for the first time since 1954, when Mussolini started the "hot" wars with an invasion of Ethiopia.

Prepare for Evacuation

Hanoi was calm under a black-out imposed by security guards and preparations were made there to begin evacuation of French and loyal Indochinese who do not wish to remain under Communist rule.

There were no demonstrations.

only the movement of pro-Communists from house to house whispering "Ho Chi Minh is coming." Rebel Ho's fifth column had been prepared to rise up against the French if the cease-fire failed to materialize and the legions of Red Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap attacked Hanoi, the "Pearl of the Orient."

Under the overall agreements, a three-power international truce commission consisting of Canada, India and Communist Poland will supervise the armistice and a mixed commission will be set up with equal representation of the rival commands.

The three-power commission will operate by majority rules except in cases of violation that could lead to a renewal of hostilities. In such cases, decisions must be unanimous and if agreement can not be reached the matter will be referred back to the nine Geneva conference powers.

A last-minute hitch developed Tuesday when the Chinese Communists demanded that the United States take part in the nine-power declaration.

U. S. Eases Red Fears

But Undersecretary of State Walter Bedell Smith, the American chief observer, had ironclad orders from President Eisenhower to disassociate himself from any pact which would divide Viet Nam. Smith, however, had eased the Communists' fears by agreeing that the United States would not interfere with the peace either by force or threat of force. It was Smith's agreement that broke a week end deadlock that threatened to wreck the conference.

Shortly after the signing, Smith issued a statement saying "We share the fervent hopes of millions throughout the world that an important step has been taken toward a lasting peace in Southeast Asia, which will establish the right of the peoples of that area to determine their own future."

Mendes-France's "peace with honor" assured the end of hostilities that had cost France and loyal Viet Nam 92,000 dead and missing. It cost the West 8-billion dollars with the United States paying more than 25 per cent, or 2-billion dollars of the total. It abandoned more than 12-million dollars of the total. It abandoned more than 12-million Indochinese to the Reds.

Win Nationwide Sales Contest

Donald Williams and B. G. Williams, Harrisburg representatives of Lincoln National Life Insurance company, are winners in a special nationwide sales contest recently concluded by the company. It has been announced by Cecil F. Cross, vice president and director of agencies. Each year the company makes a month-long drive in honor of its president. In recognition of their achievement, the local representatives will receive personal mementoes from Walter O. Menge, company president.

Indians Hold Microscopic Lead by Following Sage Advice of Late John McGraw

By United Press
Cleveland's lead in the American League was so small today that you almost needed a microscope to see it, but the Indians wouldn't even have that if they hadn't followed the sage old advice of the late John McGraw.

"Beat the hell out of the second division teams," McGraw used to tell his Giants, "and then all you'll have to do is break even with the contenders."

The Indians have been following McGraw's advice all season long, so well, in fact, that even with Tuesday night's 16-inning 5-5 tie against the fifth-place Red Sox they still have by far the best record—44 victories and only nine defeats for an 890 percentage—of any major league club against second division teams.

Red Sox Tougher

The Red Sox, whom the Indians have defeated 11 out of 12 times this season, proved tougher than usual but after four hours and 26 minutes of play, the score was still tied, the umpires called the game because of the rule which states no inning may start after 12:50 a. m. local time, and the Indians still led the Yankees by four percentage points.

The Yankees beat the third-place White Sox, 4-1.

Bobby Avila gave the Indians their first run with a first-inning homer, then walloped a two-run homer with two out in the ninth to tie the score. Mike Garcia started for the Indians, Ray Narleski hurled the ninth and Don Mossi limited Boston to three hits from the 10th inning on. Ellis Kinder relieved Willard Nixon in the 10th and went until the 15th when he gave way to Sid Hudson.

Rosen, Doby Homer

Al Rosen and Larry Doby also homered for Cleveland and Ted Lepcio hit a two-run homer for Boston.

Mickey Mantle and Irv Noren each drove in a pair of runs in the Yankee triumph over the White Sox while Whitey Ford pitched an eight-inning shutout for the Yankees. Detroit swept a two-night doubleheader from Philadelphia, 12-0 and 4-3, extending the Athletics' losing streak to 10 straight games. Ned Garver went the distance and benefited from Detroit's three-run rally in the eighth inning of the nightcap.

Roy Sievers' 15th homer and Eddie Yost's triple with the bases full in the sixth inning were the big blows in Washington's 9-1 win over Baltimore.

Giants Go Seven Ahead

The Giants stretched their National League lead to seven games by beating the Reds, 2-1, in 13 innings as the second-place Dodge rs bowed to the Cubs, 3-2, in their 10-inning game.

Johnny Antonelli limited Cincinnati to nine hits, including Ted Kluszewski's 25th homer, to gain his 14th triumph. Whitey Lockman's sacrifice fly brought home Joe Amalfitano with the winning run.

Jim Hughes' error while covering first base on Ralph Kiner's grounder allowed Gene Baker to score in the 10th with the run that beat Brooklyn. Paul Minner went the route for the Cubs, allowing eight hits.

In the only other National League game, the Cardinals bunched four of their five hits in the first inning to beat the Phillies, 4-2. Harvey Haddix was the winner although he needed Gerry Staley's help in the ninth.

End of Season To Bring Mass Retirements

NEW YORK (U.P.)—The end of the 1954 season may mark the greatest mass retirement in big league history, if all the players who are talking about quitting actually do so.

"I'd rather hang up my glove than just sit around on the bench and twiddle my thumbs," says Johnny Pesky of Washington, the latest veteran to announce retirement plans for the end of this season.

"I know when I've had enough," he adds. "I don't have to wait for anyone to tell me. If I can't play regularly there's no point in me hanging around. This will definitely be my last year as an active player."

Pesky, who broke into the big leagues with the Red Sox in 1942 and will be 35 in September, is only one of many established players who have declared their intention of quitting at the end of the current campaign.

Williams Biggest "Name"

Ted Williams, of course, is the "biggest name" of all those who have said they will collect their last pay check as an active player next September. Some of Ted's friends claim he'll change his mind before then but the lanky 35-year old slugger says he'll "cover all bets."

Third baseman Billy Cox of the Dodgers also has announced this is "positively" his last season and there is a good chance that teammate Preacher Roe will follow him from the major league scene.

Vern Stephens, 33-year old Baltimore third baseman with a lucrative business in Long Beach, Calif., had planned to turn his back on baseball at the end of the 1953 season but returned when the Orioles offered him a tempting contract.

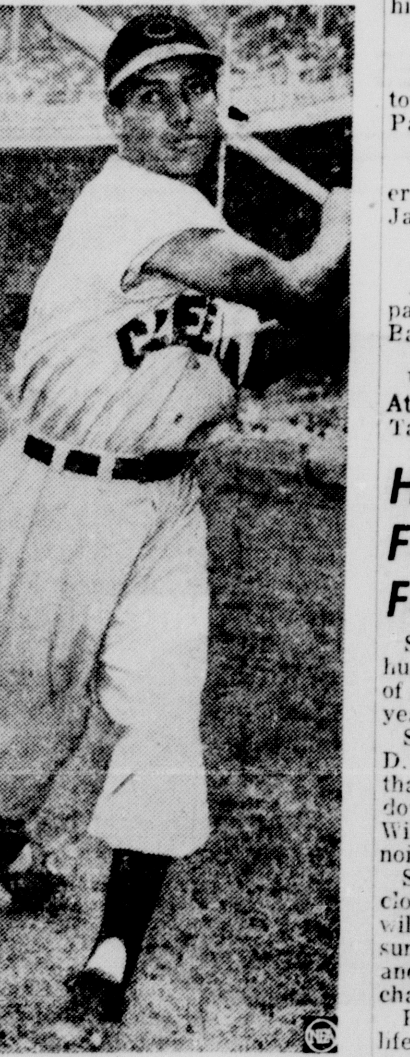

Says This Is It
"After this year, I'm definitely packing it in."

Walker Cooper, the old war-horse of the Cubs who will be 40 in January, is getting in his last big league lick, as is veteran Phil Cavarretta of the White Sox, as an active player, anyway.

From the way they're talking, too, this could be the last year for Clyde McCullough and Howie Poller of the Cubs, Wally Westlake and Bob Feller of the Indians, and Eddie Pellagrini and Sid Gordon of the Pirates. Johnny Schmitz of the Senators, Enos Slaughter, Phil Rizzuto, Allie Reynolds and Johnny Sain of the Yankees.

Slove Care

Food spillage will not injure the surface heating units of your range, for the foods either burn off or fall through to the drip pan beneath. However, spillage should be avoided when possible. If spilling occurs, first let food burn itself to carbon, then turn off switch, let unit cool and brush off with a bristle (not wire) brush.

LEADING MAN — One reason the Indians have remained in front is that they have the American League's top hitters in Bobby Avila, above, and Al Rosen. (NEA)

BEFORE THE BATTLE—Everything was sweetness and light as Terry Moore, center, and Eddie Stanky discussed ground rules in St. Louis. The second game of a doubleheader wound up with Stanky throwing a football tackle on the new manager of the Phillies. That precipitated a free-for-all. Umpire Babe Pinelli ordered the contest forfeited to the visitors because of delaying tactics by the Cardinals.

Looking AT Sports

By BILL MELTON

Last week we went back to the old-timers' "good old days" when they had the ball players'—re-viewing some of the batting feats of the 1924 season. Let's try some of the pitching records in this week's The Sporting News Baseball Quiz.

1. Washington won its first pennant and Walter Johnson led the American League in games won, winning percentage, strikeouts and earned-run average. One of the pitchers listed below was tied for most games lost. Who was he?

() Bush () Ehmeke () Shock () Coveleskie () Rommel () Uhl.

You get four guesses. A correct first choice is good for ten points, five for a second, three for third and one for a fourth pick.

2. Four pitchers won twenty or more games—one of them for the last place club—who was he? () Ehmeke () Pennock () Shaute () Hoyt () Rommel () Thurston

3. The New York Giants nosed out the Brooklyn Dodgers for the 1924 National League pennant by 1½ games. Dazzy Vance led the league in games won (28), strikeouts (262) and earned-run average (2.16), but ranked second in winning percentage. Who did better than Vance with his .824 mark? () Alexander () Kremer () Nehf () Bentley () Mays () Yule

4. While there were four pitchers in the National who won twenty or more games, one lost twenty—who is he? () Barnes () Genewich () Morrison () Carlson () Haines () Sothorn

5. Joe Bush and Alex Ferguson were the only American League pitchers to allow more than 100 bases on balls, while Jimmy Ring held the dubious honor alone in the National. Which of the following pitchers in 1953 (and not the major league leader) allowed more bases on balls than the top man of 1924?

Answers to the baseball quiz will appear in this column Thursday.

Johnny Romonosky hurled a neat six-hitter last week to carry Columbus to a 5-2 victory over Toledo in an American Association game. John also had a good night at bat, cracking out three hits in four tries, one of the blows being a double. He batted in a run and scored another. In gaining his second win, Romonosky walked three and struck out six.

The latest issue of The Sporting News carries a story on the St. Louis Cardinal farm system and among the promising prospects listed is catcher Les Pinkham, the West Frankfort boy with Columbus in the American Association.

The Charley Raubs have returned from a vacation in Two Rivers, Wisconsin. While they were there a city-wide athletic program, sponsored by the Lions club and open to all the kids, was held. There were eight track and field events and Ronnie, the oldest Raub boy, won seven firsts and his younger brother, Richie, took three thirds.

Hunters to Get Five Extra Days For Dove Season

SPRINGFIELD (U.P.)—Illinois hunters will get five extra days of shooting mourning doves this year.

State Conservation Director Glen D. Palmer announced Tuesday that due to an increase in the dove population, the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service has granted Illinois a 35-day season.

Shooting will open Sept. 1 and close Oct. 5. Hours for shooting will be from 30 minutes before sunrise until sunset. Daily bag and possession limits remain unchanged at eight.

Palmer said the Fish and Wildlife Service was informed that the mourning dove population in Missouri and Illinois had increased 8 to 10 per cent. Missouri also got an extra five days of dove hunting, with the same dates as Illinois.

Maureen Connolly, Tennis Champion, Breaks Her Leg

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (U.P.)—Maureen Connolly, 19-year old women's tennis champion, was reported "cheerful and smiling" today despite a broken leg which will keep her from defending her national title at Forest Hills next month.

"Little Mo" was horseback riding Tuesday when her horse suddenly shied at a cement truck, pitching her against the truck's fender. She said her leg was caught, and doctors later said the deep gash required "about 20 stitches" to close it.

"Oh, why did this have to happen to me?" she said at Mercy hospital, where a physician said she would be away from the courts until at least September. He said the break in her right fibula, the small shin bone, would keep her hospitalized seven to 10 days.

"Her injuries are not permanent, but it's hard to say about these things," he said. "The cut was bad, but the fracture isn't too bad."

"She's taking it very well, and she's a very game girl, but I just can't say when she'll get back to championship form. It looks now as if she'll make a complete recovery."

"She's awake, smiling and cheerful. That will help."

A three-hour operation was required to close the jagged cut and repair any tendon damage. She was rushed to the hospital from the scene at nearby Mission Valley, and X-rays disclosed the break.

The accident happened one day after the youthful star came home victorious from her second National Clay Courts championship at River Forest, Ill. The Forest Hills tourney is Aug. 28-Sept. 6.

Stanky Accepts Five-Day Suspension And Promises to Turn Over New Leaf

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (U.P.)—A chastened Eddie Stanky today accepted a five-day suspension as manager of the St. Louis Cardinals with a promise to turn over a new leaf.

Stanky and his club lost on all fronts Tuesday when National League President Warren Giles disallowed their protest of Sunday's forfeited game with the Philadelphia Phillies.

Giles, who added a $100 fine to Stanky's penalty for delaying the game, also suspended Cardinal catcher Sal Yvars and Phillie first baseman Earl Torgeson — Yvars for three days and Torgeson for two.

Sparked Free-For-All

It was Yvars and Torgeson who touched off a free-for-all fight between the teams by squaring off at home plate. Police had to break up the fracas which followed.

Shortly thereafter, when Stanky went to the mound to relieve pitcher Cot Deal, Plate Umpire Babe Pinelli awarded the game to the Phils because of Cardinal "stalling."

Stanky read a statement which amounted to a public apology for his conduct on the field.

"I called this press conference," he said, "because of the impression I received Sunday when I heard the St. Louis people applaud Pinelli's decision forfeiting the game to the Philles."

Proud Of Character

Stanky's voice was choked with emotion as he declared that he was "proud of my character off the field."

"I am aware of the booing here in St. Louis," he said. "As a player, I was booed quite frequently. I always took the attitude—the hell with it—and I am out here to win ball games. Since becoming a manager in 1952, my wife, Dickie, and very close friends have been trying to knock into my head that there is a difference."

"I know in my heart indirectly that I have embarrassed and hurt the St. Louis people, baseball na-

Former Mental Patient Questioned In Murder of Girl Found Dead in Car

JOLIET, Ill. (CP)—Anthony Stefani, 43, held for questioning in the murder of an 18-year-old girl found dead in his car, told police "three masked men" shot her.

Stefani, a former mental patient, was captured near a railroad track north of here Tuesday. He had been sought since early in the day, when the body of Doris Bogart was found sprawling out of the door of his car in a lonely lovers' lane.

Stefani admitted taking the girl out but denied the murder, police said.

He said he was driving down a deserted road Saturday night when he was stopped by three masked bandits. He told police they snatched the girl from the front seat and dragged her behind the car.

"Then I heard three shots" and the bandits fled, he said. Stefani said he walked to the rear of the car, picked up the girl's body, put it in his car and drove off.

Police said he told them he did not report the murder for fear of being "railroaded again" to a mental hospital.

Stefani asserted that he was an "uncle" to the girl and treated her as if "she was his niece." He said he took her to movies and gave her gifts of clothing and a radio.

He was arrested, barefooted and shirtless, walking along railroad tracks.

A farmer found Miss Bogart's body lying partly out of the car with the head down and face to the sky. Her clothing, blue jeans and a black and yellow shirt, were disarranged, he said.

An autopsy showed she had been shot twice, once in the left shoulder and once through the heart. Authorities said further tests might show she had been strangled.

The coroner's office estimated she had been dead two days, but that the body was not abandoned until Monday night.

Red China to Free Six Americans

GENEVA (CP)—Red China in from the United States today that it is releasing six American citizens held in China and that the cases of other U. S. citizens detained there are under review.

The United States announced, simultaneously, that it is releasing 15 Chinese students previously detained in the United States.

The exchange agreement was reached at a meeting here this morning between Alfred Jenkins, a member of the U. S. Indochina conference delegation, and Pu Shan of the Chinese Communist delegation.

Mrs. Edna Jones
Representative

Mr. and Mrs. James Manker and family have returned from a vacation trip to Wisconsin. They also have had as guests Mrs. Vernie Rice and her son and family of Wood River. Mrs. Rice is a sister of Mrs. Manker.

Mr. and Mrs. Purley Goswell of Maryville, Tenn., are vacationing at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Harris.

Mrs. Dollie Upchurch returned to her work in Springfield Tuesday after a week end with her family.

Mrs. John Hill left Sunday for Knoxville, Tenn., where she will visit a friend, Mrs. Kenneth Haws, who will go with her to New York to meet the mother and sister of Mrs. Hill who are arriving by boat from Monte Carlo for a visit in America. They will all remain in New York for one week, then fly back to Knoxville for another week visiting relatives there. They will then come to Galatia with Mrs. Myrtle Entwistle of Chatsworth, Ill., an aunt of Mrs. Hill who will drive them from Knoxville. They expect to be in the States three months.

President Believes Reds Not Ready for War; Denies He Seeks to Destroy TVA

WASHINGTON (CP)—President Eisenhower said today he does not believe the Communists are ready to challenge the free world to all-out war now.

But he said free nations must unite to resist Communist aggression by subversion and propaganda.

Free nations, he said at his weekly news conference, must be so tightly bound together that none of them will give up.

Americans, the President added, lose a little of their freedom whenever someone elsewhere comes under Communist rule.

In other highlights of his news conference, Mr. Eisenhower said: 1. Anyone who says he is out to destroy the Tennessee Valley Authority is in error, to put it in the mildest way. But the President made it clear he is not backing down on his plan to have the Atomic Energy Commission buy power for TVA from a new plant to be built by private interests at West Memphis, Ark.

Asked about a report that he overruled a majority of the five-man AEC on the power plan, Mr. Eisenhower said he considers it his responsibility to closely supervise the AEC.

2. He is declaring Texas, Wyoming, and possibly some other states as drought disaster areas eligible for federal aid. The formal directive will be issued later today.

3. He thinks his legislative program is coming along in good shape, although he knows there are some features Congress will not approve this session. He said he will send Congress another message on public housing early next session. This Congress has rejected the key phases of his public housing proposals.

4. He is not taking any stand on the censure resolution proposed by Sen. Ralph E. Flanders (R-Vt.) against Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy. Sticks to Tidelands Stand

5. He has no idea of changing his stand that coastal states should own the tidelands out to their historic boundaries, 10 1/2 miles in the case of Texas and west Florida, three miles elsewhere.

6. The administration is studying the possibility of signing a mutual aid pact with Formosa.

7. There is no thought in the administration of going to war to unite Korea.

8. He will push for congressional approval of the administration's so-called "wetback" legislation whenever he sees an opportunity. He said the administration wants to make sure, however, that any new laws do not interfere with legitimate transient workers.

9. The President does not now see any need for a special session of Congress later this year. But there are a number of problems to be talked out thoroughly as to actions that should be taken, if certain situations arise, with congressional leaders of both parties before they go home.

Sen. Jackson Demands Right for Democrats to Rule on Cohn Replacement

WASHINGTON (CP)—Sen. Harry M. Jackson said today the Democrats will demand the right to rule on any man Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy picks to replace Roy M. Cohn.

Cohn, chief counsel of the Senate Investigating subcommittee, quit under fire Tuesday in a staff shakeup in which one investigator was transferred and another notified of possible dismissal.

It was the worst setback of the year for Subcommittee Chairman McCarthy. It also was the first dramatic result of the 36-day Army McCarthy hearings.

McCarthy confessed today he doesn't know who will succeed Cohn, whom he called "pretty near irreplaceable." But everyone seemed to hope another fight can be averted.

Sen. Karl E. Mundt (R-SD) said the staff shakeup means "the decks are cleared—we can go into an era of unanimous action again."

Sen. Charles E. Potter (R-Mich.) who sparked the "housecleaning" move, said "Now the thing to do is get going on our regular work."

Approve 22 Staff Members

Everything was so harmonious after Tuesday's showdown subcommittee meeting, in fact, that Democrats Jackson and Stuart Symington (Mo.) presided at a closed afternoon hearing on Communists in Boston-area defense plants.

McCarthy announced Cohn's resignation Tuesday. Then just before the subcommittee meeting, he said his longtime lieutenant, Donald A. Surine, was being transferred from the subcommittee staff to his own office.

At the meeting itself, the three Democrats teamed up to put over Potter's motion to fire all subcommittee employees who had not been approved by a majority before July 31.

The subcommittee promptly and unanimously approved 22 staff members, including their director, Francis P. Carr, who figured along with Cohn in the Army-McCarthy hearings.

But Thomas W. Lavenia, subcommittee investigator and former Secret Service man, was not confirmed. Potter said the group will meet soon to decide whether he should be fired or kept on.

Chrysler Workers Idled by Strike Climb to 35,600

DETROIT (CP)—The number of Chrysler Corp. workers idled because of a strike over the discharge of two union members climbed to 35,600 today.

Chrysler assembly lines worked a half day, then 3,400 more workers were sent home because of a parts shortage.

Some 10,000 members of Dodge Local No. 3 of the CIO United Auto Workers union have been on strike since Monday. The other 25,600 workers have been idled because of parts shortages. The shortages developed because drivers of inter-plant trucks, who deliver parts to various Detroit area plants are members of Local No. 3 and joined the walkout.

May Use Grain Surpluses to Aid Cattlemen

WASHINGTON (CP)—Agriculture Department officials, under increased pressure for federal drought aid, hope soon to turn government grain surpluses over to drought-stricken cattlemen, it was learned today.

An informed source said officials hope to announce the drought relief program sometime this week.

He said conferences with the feed industry—which would be affected by cut-rate government sales—and administrative details of the aid program have to be worked out before an announcement.

The program probably will make government-owned grain stocks available to drought area farmers and also contain some provision for working out arrangements with feed dealers for added sales, according to the source.

Oglesby Rites at Eldorado Thursday

The funeral of Mrs. Emma Oglesby, Eldorado resident who died yesterday morning in the Ferrell hospital where she had been only a short while, will be Thursday at 2 p. m. at the Church of God in Eldorado.

Questions and Answers on Wheat Vote

As July 23 approaches, the date for the wheat referendum, more and more growers are asking questions about the marketing quotas and the referendum, according to Chairman Raymond Alvey, of the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee.

Pointing out that county ASC office people and all county and community committees have the answers to program operations questions, Chairman Alvey gave a quick review of answers he is most frequently called upon to give.

The results of the referendum will determine whether or not marketing quotas, with penalties for overplanting acreage allotments, will be in effect for the 1955 crop. They will also determine the level of price support which will be available. These and other basic questions are being studied carefully by wheat growers.

Some have asked, "Who is eligible to vote?" The answer is, any farmer who would be subject to the quotas. Farms will be subject to the quotas if the wheat to be harvested for grain in 1955 is more than 15 acres.

"If quotas are in effect, what will the penalty be?" For farmers with over 15 acres of wheat, who fail to comply with the acreage allotments, the penalty on excess wheat will be at the rate of 45 per cent of the May 1, 1955, parity price.

Another frequently asked question is, "How does the referendum affect 1955 price supports?" The answer is: If two-thirds or more of the farmers who vote favor quotas, the full level of price support which is authorized for the 1955 crop—apparently somewhere from 90 to 75 per cent of parity—will be available for those who comply with their wheat and other acreage allotments. If less than two-thirds favor quotas, price support will be at 50 per cent of parity for those who comply with their acreage allotments. No price support is available for those who fail to comply with acreage allotments, with or without the marketing quotas.

In answer to another frequently asked question, Chairman Alvey states briefly how the farm allotment is determined. First the national acreage allotment is apportioned among states, and then among the counties according to the acreage seeded to wheat during the latest 10-year period, adjusted for weather trends and other factors. This year the national acreage allotment is 55 million acres, the level specified by law under present supply conditions. Allotments are determined for farms according to past wheat acreage, tillable acres on each farm, crop rotation practices, type of soil, and topography.

Farmers in doubt about their eligibility to vote in the referendum, or any program question should see their county ASC office located in city hall, Harrisburg.

And When the Pie Was Opened—

WELLINGTON, O. — (AP) — Humane societies may not approve, but Mrs. Kathryn Clisby has a way of getting rid of starlings, or at least of making use of them.

She adopted her method a few years ago when the birds began swarming into this area. At first, residents used horns, sirens, fireworks and shotguns to try to rid themselves of the persistent, songless birds.

Mrs. Clisby, who was a member of her school rifle team, joined the shotgun brigade, but instead of just banging away, she decided there was no point in wasting the game.

She tried them fried in butter, adding red wine when they were browned, and found they made a tasty dish with wild rice.

Now she has rigged up a large suet cage to attract the starlings and has three eager Brittany spaniels to do her retrieving. In swarming time, she uses a shotgun, but the rest of the year she prefers a rifle.

The birds don't have too much meat, but Mrs. Clisby figures on "four bites to each breast and five breasts for each dinner guest."

KIBLER NAMED UNIT HONOR AIRMAN—Airman 1c William L. Kibler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Kibler, 1300 Feazel street, has been selected as Honor Airman for June of his Air Force unit, the 41st Radio Squadron, Mobile, in Bremerhaven, Germany. He was presented a trophy in honor of the event by his commander, Lt. Col. Robert A. Dickson (left). Kibler enlisted in the Air Force in January, 1951, and received his basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas. He later attended technical school at Keesler Air Force Base, Biloxi, Miss., before being assigned to the 41st Radio Squadron, Mobile, in January, 1952. Before enlisting in the Air Force, Airman Kibler attended the Harrisburg Township high school where he was active in athletics, and later attended Southern Illinois university, Carbon (Air Force Photo)

Mightiest Defense Project Nearly Complete

FRONT DOOR TO SAVANNAH RIVER PLANT: Only a surprisingly few cars parked outside reveal the activity going on inside this nuclear factory, which will cost $1.4 billion when finished.

CONSTRUCTION OFFICIALS occupy these star-shaped buildings at Savannah. Unhunted woods beyond teem with wild game.

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

AUGUSTA, Ga. — (NEA) — The U. S. Atomic Energy Commission's Savannah River Plant, the mightiest single defense project ever built in America, is nearing completion.

There's now less than a year to go on some major construction. Estimated cost will be $1.4 billion.

Already the complex network of completed plants is turning out great quantities of the mysterious nuclear products needed for hydrogen and atomic bombs, and perhaps, some day, atomic energy for peaceful purposes.

Less than 12,000 construction workers, on a 40-hour week, remain, down from a peak of 38,500 men working a 54-hour week.

Close to 7,000 persons are now employed in the actual operations of the vast plant which occupies 200,646 acres of what was formerly pastures, crop-lands and woods. That's only 200 operating personnel short of the total number needed for full-blown production.

All of the 6,000 persons who formerly lived in the area have been transplanted to neighboring communities along with 5,300 graves of their kin. Only about 20 of the old stores, barns and homes in the former community of Ellington are left standing. They are used as offices, warehouses or will soon be sold for salvage.

Maximum security naturally blankets every phase of the plant's operation. However, Curtis A. Nelson, AEC manager, gives an enthusiastic general report.

He says it is turning out nuclear materials approximately according to the original schedule. No major production bugs have crept in. In several cases, where the pilot plant stage of production of new materials has been skipped, the original plant designs and processes have proved successful.

Working relations with the du Pont company which built and operates the plant are excellent, he reports. No labor troubles have interfered with production.

The city of Augusta and adjoining communities have successfully absorbed the social and economic impacts of the plant.

The changes which have taken place during the past two years, when this reporter last visited here, are drastic. Then swarms of construction workers jammed the newly-constructed four-lane highways. Innumerable pieces of huge earth-moving and construction machinery moved about with great noise and confusion. Gigantic sandy scars, where unbelievable yards of earth had been excavated, covered the landscape. Tons upon tons of construction materials were piled all over the place. There were deep, raw holes in the ground where foundations were being poured.

Today it is all different. Lush green growth covers the sandy scars. Everything is as neat as an Army camp. Only smoke pouring from tall chimneys and the surprisingly few cars parked near each plant reveal activity inside.

Relatively few people are needed for the manufacture of nuclear materials. And the violence of the chemical and physical reactions involved is contained within the immensely thick gray concrete walls and tortuously-bent piping arrangements.

Apparently to prevent possible chain-reaction explosions, and for best security from air attack, units of the plant are built on individual, widely-separated plots.

As you drive over the maze of new roads connecting individual plants their huge unintelligible shapes spring at you around each curve and over each hill.

The visitor can only wonder about the strange processes going on inside which could dictate such unreasonable forms. One is 90 per cent a maze of pipes. Another is built around a huge geyser of water which spews into a big reservoir, fed by the Savannah River which borders 27 miles of the site.

The only structure which makes sense is the new air-conditioned administration building housing both the du Pont and AEC operating employees. Du Pont construction people still occupy the original offices built like the spokes of a wheel.

The most incongruous aspect of the area is the teeming game which has grown up in the unhunted fields and the great schools of fish which swim lazily through the unfished streams.

This new life is the odd by-product of the greatest single facility for achieving mass destruction ever built by man.

Stranger from Brooklyn

NEW LONDON, Conn. — (AP) — A common pleas court stenographer who came here from Brooklyn, N. Y., had difficulty with a word used by a witness. It sounded like "krik."

The stenographer asked the witness for a spelling.

"C-R-E-E-K," Judge Vine R. Parmelee added facetiously. "Haven't you gotten over that Brooklyn accent yet? We call it a 'krik' up here."

May Relief Rolls Show First Decline Since September

SPRINGFIELD — Illinois relief rolls in May showed the first "marked" drop since September, it was reported today.

The Illinois Public Aid Commission said 76,633 persons got relief, a decrease of 4,572 from April.

However, the total still was 26,116 above May, 1953.

The total number of cases receiving assistance under the IPAC's five programs of aid was 265,547, a drop of 4,192 from April but an increase of 15,200 over May, 1953. Total expenditures were $11,392,642, down $110,862 from the previous month.

'DIG THOSE CRAZY DRIVERS'

Editorial — By BRUCE BLOSSAT

It's warm, the open road is inviting, and the crazy season for drivers is upon us again. That means it's time for another sounding-off on motorists' bad — and unsafe — highway habits.

Some of this may strike the eye as repetitious. If it does, we'll have to blame it on the fact that drivers keep on doing the same old crazy, irresponsible things when they get behind the wheel. Underlying most of these bad practices is a single basic weakness of attitude. Too many motorists evidently regard their car as some sort of large toy, to be flipped around on the road with a careless finger or two on the wheel.

It ought to be clear by now to anyone who can read — including youngsters of 15 and more — that a modern automobile in careless hands is a weapon of death. In this respect, it is at least a match for any gun ever fired against an American by a German or Jap in World War II, or a Communist in the Korean war.

So, we politely suggest to all drivers, and particularly the young ones:

Stop driving with one hand. The fellow who hurls along at 60 or better with a finger curled around the wheel and his left hand holding up the car roof advertises himself as the most ignorant driver on the highway. It is doubtful if a vacuum cleaner would be safe in his hands.

A lot of people who refused to learn this elemental lesson are memorialized today in the statistics of highway fatalities.

Don't crawl up on the back bumper of the car ahead. A quick stop and YOUR car, not the one in front, will be accordion-pleated. The highway is no place to play tag.

Don't pass unless you can see far enough ahead to assure your safe return to the proper driving lane. Some of our concrete cowboys appear to think everybody else on the road should be ready to slam on the brakes or turn off the pavement so they can pursue their reckless ways.

Don't turn onto a busy road in front of a fast-traveling car when you can clearly see a block or more of space behind it. This baffling maneuver seems to be a great favorite with farmers.

Don't ride the passing lane on a four-lane road unless you're going by another car. There are some pretty stubborn characters abroad, who will stick firmly to the left no matter how many five-foot-high signs they see telling them to stay right when not passing.

Watch all roadside stopping places for vehicles, especially trucks, slipping back onto the highway. The side of the road is as much your worry as the center. If you forget that, you may wind up in a rear-end smash, an all too common thing these days.

That's enough warning for one day. If a third of it could be widely heeded, a great many more people would be alive this fall than are likely to be.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: Dewey Seems Serious In Desire To Retire To Private Life; Big Senatorial Battle In Delaware; GOP Congressmen Reading Tax Fireworks For Big Businessmen.

WASHINGTON. — More facts about Governor Dewey's important conference with Senator Ives of New York have now leaked out. If what Dewey told Ives can be taken seriously, the turbulent, much spotlighted, efficient governor of New York really wants to retire to private life. And it looks as if Dewey is serious.

For Dewey gave Ives a long and vigorous lecture on why he, Ives, should run for governor. From the tone of Dewey's voice and the vigor of his arguments, he really meant business. He told Ives that the Republican party needed a strong candidate and that Ives was the strongest on deck. He intimated that the last thing the Republicans could afford was to see another Roosevelt occupy the executive mansion in Albany and get a leg up on the White House. This boys appear to think everybody else on the road should be ready to slam on the brakes or turn off the pavement so they can pursue their reckless ways.

Don't turn onto a busy road in front of a fast-traveling car when you can clearly see a block or more of space behind it. This baffling maneuver seems to be a great favorite with farmers.

run again, especially if Eisenhower makes a special request, which is more than likely.

BIG BATTLE IN LITTLE STATE

A mighty political battle is brewing in Delaware, the second tiniest state in the Union and sometimes called the Duchy of the Du Ponts. Upon its outcome in part depend who controls the Senate in the narrow-margin race this fall.

Delaware is a state where the Du Pont family, which controls General Motors, Du Pont Chemicals, United States Rubber, operates an H-bomb plant, and owns half a dozen other industries, exercises a paternal, sometimes dual hand. And today it's alleged that the Du Ponts are well satisfied with the likable little Democratic senator, Allen Frear, who seeks reelection, though less satisfied with the rambunctious, uncontrollable Republican Sen. John Williams, re-elected last year.

Regardless of Du Pont satisfaction, however, some of the Democrats who have to renominate Frear are not satisfied. Frear, one of the nicest and least cantankerous members of the Senate, has attracted little attention in Congress, except for voting Republican on certain issues and winning the accolade of the "pay-toilet senator."

This was because, during price-control days, Frear introduced a bill permitting railroads to raise the price of pay-toilets from a nickel to 10 cents, after the office of Price Stabilization had ruled that they could not. The New York Central was abiding by the OPS rule, but the Pennsylvania had changed the pay mechanism on its toilets — after the OPS ruling was made — and got slapped with a $385,245 fine as a result. So the charging senator from Delaware introduced the pay-toilet bill not only permitting the increase to 10 cents, but letting the Pennsylvania out of its $385,245 fine.

For this and other reasons, Delaware Democrats have been busy drafting Justice James Tunnell, Jr., of the Delaware Supreme Court to run in place of Frear. Tunnell, son of a distinguished Democratic senator who served in FDR's days, is in a judicial position where he can't engage in politics, but is willing to accept a draft. And a draft is strongly in the works.

There are only three counties in the state of Delaware and so far two of them have endorsed Judge Tunnell. Only one county, Kent, the smallest, home of Senator Frear, has endorsed him.

However, a lot of money is pouring into Delaware to back Frear and there should be a hot battle when the Democratic convention date, August 10, rolls around.

Note — Republicans are certain to nominate Congressman Herbert Warburton for the Senate, a liberal Eisenhower Republican, and former president of the National Young Republican Federation. Conservative Republicans don't like him either.

TAXES ON PRIVATE AIRPLANES

Republican congressmen are planning some tax fireworks regarding businessmen who charge off private airplanes, yachts, etc., as business expense. However, Democrats aren't too happy about the forthcoming hearing, claim that it's chiefly a show to win votes next November.

Tax Commissioner T. Coleman Andrews is appearing before the Ways and Means committee to warn businessmen that hunting and fishing trips in private airplanes, plus boxes at the world series, cannot be charged off as business expenses.

However, when Congressman Robert Kean of New Jersey, the subcommittee chairman, tried to bind closed doors to get approval for such a hearing, Democratic Congressman Thomas O'Brien of Illinois exploded:

"Just a minute. I can't see the value of using committee machinery in the closing days of Congress to publicize Commissioner Andrews. Why doesn't he use his own machinery?"

"All Andrews has to do is call in the press and issue his statement in the regular way. The press would be delighted to pass on his announcement to the public. This subcommittee doesn't even have a counsel to guide the proceedings. Andrews would be the whole show. He would be telling the world, 'Here's what I have discovered about corporation tax evasions in the last year.'"

"Committee members would be sitting here, including Democrats, helping to dramatize the Andrews announcement," continued O'Brien.

Carpentier Rules Courtesy Basic Rule of Conduct for Driver License Inspectors

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — Secretary of State Charles F. Carpentier has directed drivers license inspectors and supervisors to make courtesy their basic rule of conduct in giving examinations to applicants for drivers licenses.

"Let the technicalities of your job have running through them a little of the milk of human kindness," he told a group at a recent meeting here. "We are not trying to harass people; we are not trying to deny them the privilege of driving on Illinois streets and highways. We are trying only to make sure that when they are on the road they will not be in constant danger from a small minority of reckless and incompetent drivers. That is one of the reasons why we give most applicants three opportunities to pass the test before entering a final failure."

Subject to Nervousness

Secretary Carpentier has reminded the inspectors and supervisors that anyone taking any kind of examination, whether he is a high school sophomore taking the semester final in geometry or a person taking the drivers license test, is subject to some nervousness. This, he said, is where courtesy and guidance are needed, rather than gruffness or grumpiness.

Mr. Carpentier emphasized that there are no "tricks" in the examination. No inspector will ask an applicant to perform any maneuver with a car which is illegal in any way.

"We know there are some people who either cannot or will not drive motor vehicles in a safe and sensible manner," Mr. Carpentier said. "But we cannot tell which drivers fall into that category until we have examined them or until their driver control files show an accumulation of traffic offenses. We are not going to deny or revoke anyone's driving privileges until we have adequate, fair, honest evidence that such action is needed for the protection of all drivers — including the ones failed or revoked."

Prepare in Advance

Secretary Carpentier said all persons who are planning to take the drivers license examination should prepare for it in advance, and he advised them to study carefully the "Rules of the Road" book.

Brien. "It is Mr. Andrews' job to enforce the tax laws. It isn't our job to give him any personal publicity. Our job is confined to making public facts elicited by this subcommittee, not by Commissioner Andrews."

Result was that the subcommittee overruled Chairman Kean by voting to hear Andrews behind closed doors. After that, a vote will be taken on whether he should be heard in public.

let distributed free by his office. The 1953 session of the Legislature alone made 32 changes in the state's traffic laws, he pointed out, and unless an applicant is familiar with the current provisions of the law, his chances of failure become higher.

"Rules of the Road" contains all the information a person needs to pass the written part of the examination, Secretary Carpentier said. It also contains much information dealing with the safe operation of a motor vehicle which will assist an applicant in the road test. The booklets may be obtained at Drivers License Examining Stations throughout the state, or by writing to Charles F. Carpentier, Secretary of State, Springfield, Illinois.

The new Drivers License Law is proving to be an important factor in making Illinois streets and highways safer, Secretary Carpentier predicted.

Many of the persons who have failed the examination on their

The members of the Garden Heights 4-H club held their meeting Friday at the home of Linda Bundren.

The program consisted of a clothing talk by Retha Lane, a demonstration by Mary Taylor in which she showed how to make a foundation cake, mentioning several variations, a piano solo by Sally Smith, and two vocal numbers by Linda Bundren.

Others present were Dixie Endley, Sue Taylor, Margaret Humphrey, Becky Chrisman, Tina Baker and the following visitors, Mrs. Joseph Smith, Audrey Smith, Mrs. John Bundren and Brenda Crane.

The Lucky Horseshoe Agriculture 4-H club met Thursday evening, July 15, at the home of Jimmie Harbison.

Jimmie Carnett opened the meeting and Dorothy Harbison called the roll. During the business meeting Jimmie gave a talk on "Planting a Farm Forest" and Ronnie Gullledge spoke on "How to Prepare a Building for Baby Chicks." A report on a 4-H club camp was given by Leroy Gibbs who attended along with Jimmie Carnett.

The next meeting will be on August 5 at the home of Ronnie Gullledge at which time talks will be given by Jimmie Carnett and Lawrence Shea.

first attempt have successfully passed it on the second or third try.

"It shows, I believe, that those persons did some studying and some practicing in the meantime, and as a result are better drivers. That is what we are trying to accomplish," Secretary Carpentier said.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Shell Honored At Church Picnic

The month of July is picnic time for the Naomi Ruth class of the Pankeyville Baptist church, and to this annual affair the entire Sunday school is invited as well as friends who do not attend.

Saturday evening, July 17, a large group joined with the class and all enjoyed a picnic at Karel park. Following an hour of fellowship and fun around the picnic tables the members of the class conducted their regular devotion and business meeting.

At the close of the meeting a large number of packages were placed on a table and Mr. and Mrs. Bert Shell were invited to open them. Mr. and Mrs. Shell, who for the past few years have operated the Pankeyville grocery, recently sold their business and home to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Allen. The Shells will be moving away from Pankeyville in the near future, therefore, the packages, which contained handkerchiefs, were farewell gifts from neighbors and friends.

Those present at the picnic were Rev. and Mrs. Ray Daniels, Mr. and Mrs. George Myers, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Allen and children, Janet and David, Mrs. Stella Wallace, Mrs. Ollie Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Kallie Sadler and children, Gary, Karen and Steve, Mrs. Fern Waddell and daughters, Dorothy and Mary, Mr. and Mrs. John Waddell, Mr. and Mrs. Coy Horner and son, Nolen, Mrs. Bettie Norman, Mrs. Blanche Shacklett, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Shell.

Thomas Moore family holds Sixth Family Reunion in Michigan. The sixth annual reunion of the William M. Moore family was held in Pontiac, Mich., recently at Davisburg park. The weather was unfavorable, and just as the group began to eat, it started to rain. This did not dampen the appetites, however, and everyone enjoyed a bountiful potluck picnic which was served inside a large pavilion.

Thomas Moore conducted the business meeting assisted by Mrs. Otto Simpson who acted as secretary in place of Mrs. Mezie Porter who was unable to be present. New officers for the year of 1955 were elected as follows: Ruth Evans, president, and Blanche Williford, secretary.

During the meeting the following were recognized and presented with gifts: Lucy Moore, oldest member; Marilyn June Hill, youngest member, and Della Simpson, largest family.

The 1955 reunion will be held at Harrisburg.

The following relatives and friends were in attendance numbering 87: Messrs and Mesdames Otto Simpson, Thomas Moore, Jack Davis, Cecil Moore, Donald Moore, Kenneth Moore and children, Tim and Trudy, Charles Simpson, James McIlrath, Otis Pickering, Howard Aker and children, Glenda and Cynthia, Merlin Best, Milton Hill and Marilyn, James Cumberworth, Alvin Wolf, Robert Clements, George Moore, James Sherrod, Thomas Moore Jr. and sons, Richard and Terry, Dwight Midvett, Leslie Thompson and son, Henry Devar, Gary Devar and Rodney.

Mrs. Lucy Moore, Mrs. Ada Thompson, Mrs. Helen Russell and Jerry, Mrs. Blanche Williford, Mrs. Peter Trip and Petie, Elizabeth and David, Bill Moore, Silver Anderson, Mrs. Julia Ridley, Mrs. Lucille Harper, Harry Lee Devar, Frances Bryant, Michael Devar, Mike and Alma Mae Sevastian, Jack and Jill Campbell, Philip Davis, Harold Moore, Linda and Roger Duff, Jimmy McIlrath, Bob and Charles McIlrath, JoAnn Roberts, Linda McIlrath, Judith Best, Kathy and Janet Cumberworth.

Mrs. Joe Harris left today for Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., where she will visit with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Uzzle, who have a new baby girl.

Lady headed right

She's shopping bound and sure of herself. This newspaper keeps her informed about improved or entirely new products, and guides her to the dealers who carry them.

She knows that manufacturers compete constantly for her favor . . . that they spend fortunes in research, development and quality control to induce her to buy their brands instead of their rivals'.

And she makes a point of learning which manufacturers' brands serve her best . . . and always asks for them by brand name.

So, whether she's buying "little" or buying "big" . . . things that she can tuck into that shopping bag, or things that take two strong men just to lift . . . she knows where to head to get her money's worth.

Deadly Killers
Apparently harmless items — cleaning fluid, washing powder, drain cleaner, kerosene, mothballs, antiseptics and disinfectants are responsible for hundreds of deaths. Most of these products give no warning of danger on the label, for they don't come under the federal caustic poisons act.
